

(Amended Abstract: Application Number: 10/614,579 Art Unit: 3711

Examiner: Sebastiano Passaniti

ABSTRACT

A golf putter having a putter head that rotates when struck by a golf ball. The shaft is centered on the putter head. Both the shaft and head have indicating lines that line up, and upon being struck will move, the amount of rotation will visually show the golfer where on the club head the ball struck. The lines are easily lined up again for the next put.